

DOUBLE DATE – RELEASED IN UK CINEMAS 13TH
OCTOBER

Directed By Benjamin Barfoot

Starring Michael Socha, Danny Morgan, Georgia Groome, Kelly Wenham

Runtime 89 minutes

British black comedy Double Date, an original feature written by Danny Morgan and a directorial debut from Benjamin Barfoot, will be in UK cinemas on 13th October, distributed by Pinpoint.

The film's four leads - Michael Socha (This is England, Being Human), Georgia Groome (Angus, Thongs and Perfect Snogging, London to Brighton), Danny Morgan (On The Road, Ideal, Breaking The Bank) and Kelly Wenham (Life On Mars, Dead Set, Merlin) – will be bringing plenty of scares and laughs, in time for this year's Halloween celebrations.

Unbearably self-assured, and irritatingly cocksure, one thing Alex (Socha) can boast about is his loyalty to his dearest friend, Jim (Morgan). With the latter's 30th birthday on the horizon, Alex promises to help get his best friend laid, so he won't reach this unwelcome milestone a virgin. They muster up the courage to organise a double date with sisters Kitty (Wenham) and Lulu (Groome), but little do the boys know, their company for the evening are twisted serial killers, and have other plans for their night ahead. As Jim and Lulu strike up a genuine bond, his future rests entirely on her conscience, and whether or not she'll betray her sister and warn Jim and Alex of their nefarious intentions.

The film features an array of cameo appearances, including BAFTA-nominated actor Dexter Fletcher (Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels, Layer Cake), Tom Sturridge (The Boat That Rocked, Far From The Madding Crowd), Olivia Poulet (Sherlock, The Thick of It), Robert Glenister, (Hustle, The Level), Rosie Cavaliero (Jane Eyre, Vera Drake) and Cressida Bonas (The Bye Bye Man). Also appearing in the film are Swedish psychedelic outfit Goat, and rapper MC Big Narstie.
